Protecting Child Safety at All Levels of Society

Show/Story Ideas:

No forced kisses for kids this Holiday season—what to do about overly affectionate Aunt Edith and Uncle Ted.

What it really takes to “bully-proof” your school—what parents, teachers, coaches, and principals need to know.

How to let your kids go “Free-Range” and stay safe—Kidpower skills are the missing ingredient.

The rules for touch—teaching consent at all ages, from preschool through college.

Does your child’s summer camp, sports team, school, or daycare know enough about child safety?

Campus safety—we all have a role in preventing sexual assault.

Sexual assault hurts everyone—men as victims too, and what men need to understand about women’s personal safety.

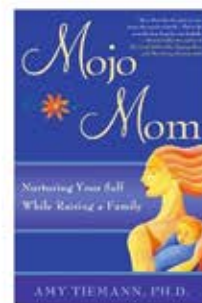

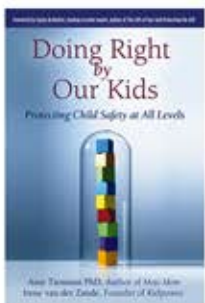

Testimonials:

“Kidpower has an exceptional track record in the fields of personal safety and violence prevention.” - Gavin de Becker, noted safety expert and author of The Gift of Fear

“Tiemann’s ‘letting go so you both can grow’ is the shift parents need to nurture themselves and their families with absolute confidence and joy.” - Michele Borba, Ed. D.

“I had a great time in Dr. Amy’s Kidpower class. Now I have the tools to get through adverse situations.” - Kidpower Training Participant
